While our intent is to make Internet access available to further educational goals and objectives, students may find ways to access inappropriate materials as well. We believe the benefits to students by accessing information and resources, and opportunities for collaboration, exceeds any disadvantages. While the school sets rules for use of the service, parents and guardians are responsible for setting and teaching the boundaries that their children must follow when using media and information sources. Internet Students are to demonstrate acceptable behavior while using the school computer networks at a Rules standard equal to their behavior in the classroom or a school hallway. Communications on the network are often public in nature. General school rules for language, and good behavior in their communications will always apply. Within reason, freedom of speech and access to information will be honored. Outside of school, families bear the same responsibility for such guidance as they exercise with information sources such as television, telephones, movies, radio, and other potentially offensive media. Data Network storage areas may be treated like school lockers. Network administrators may review files Protection and communications to maintain system integrity and ensure that students are using the system responsibly.
